SUFFRAGISTS MOVE WITH ORGANIZATION

Elected Secretary And Two Committee Heads Following Address of Miss Harriet Grimm Yesterday.

Further steps toward the organization of the campaign for woman's suffrage in Rock County were taken yesterday following the address on the subject given by Miss Harriet Grimm at the High School. Miss Helen Jeffris was elected secretary of the county suffrage league, and Miss Louise Merrill chairman of the committee on organization. Principal H. E. Russell was named head of the committee on publicity. Mrs. A. P. Lovejoy, president of the County Suffrage League, presided at the meeting.

Concerted efforts will be made to weld into an effective working force all the friends of suffrage in the county. Local organizations will be formed wherever possible, funds raised for the purpose of bringing lecturers to speak in its behalf, and to educate literature. The campaign will be an educational one, not militantly aggressive.

Miss Grimm, who was introduced by President Lovejoy, spoke for an hour to an audience of interested women that taxed the capacity of the science lecture room at the high school. The men present did not exceed a scant half dozen.

"Prejudice, rather than arguments is the principal obstacle with which the friends of suffrage have to contend," said Miss Grimm. "I have now been out in the state five months and the type of objections made to giving the ballot to women has been continually changing until its opponents are in the position of an Italian resident who when asked what reason he had for opposing a suffrage bill declared that he had no reasons but that he had a feeling against it."

"In the fight for suffrage we are encountering much the same type of objections that met the struggle to open the schools and colleges to women, and later the industries and professions."

"The speaker went on to recount the changes that education would make women had housekeepers and caused them to neglect their children for novel reading and writing love letters; the opposition to their entering the professional pursuits because they did not have as heavy brains, or as much gray matter or convulsions in their brain as men, and how all those had been disproven. Women were literally forced to enter the industrial field when the factory system of production caused the cessation of home industries."

"Much as the women in the industries and the professions need the ballot to protect themselves, the mothers need it most of all. To them is entrusted the welfare and rearing of the children, and they cannot give them the protection they need without the right to vote. While the children are inside the home the mother's need of the ballot may not seem so evident, but when the children leave the home they are in the custody and under the protection of the government and its agents. The mothers should have the power to protect them from immoral influences, bad sanitation, contagion and other harmful danger."

As an instance of the inability of women to exert influence for their protection without the ballot, Miss Grimm referred to the ten thousand shirtwaist makers who marched to the office of Mayor Gaynor of New York requesting him to arbitrate the strike demands. They were not even given a hearing.

"Do you suppose that if these had been ten thousand men that the Mayor would have dared treat them in this manner, or if he would have treated these women that way if they had the ballot?"

"The speaker volunteered to answer any question that might be asked her at the close of her talk and a number were submitted by the men present."

"What would you say," said one, "to the trades of Richard Barry against woman's suffrage?"

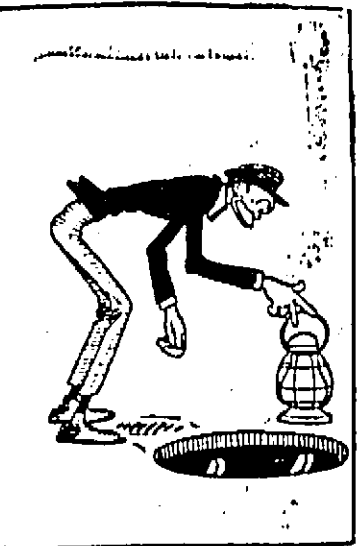

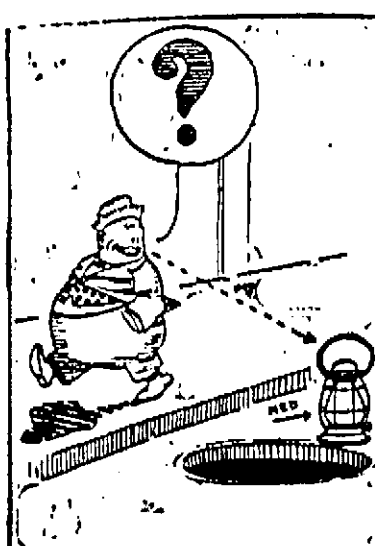

"Go to California, or read Judge Lindsay's articles in the Edinboro," replied the speaker.

"What do you think of Roosevelt's stand?" was another query.

"Roosevelt tried not to show where he stood."

In replying to a question as to the reason for the opposition of the Ladies' Home Journal to woman's suffrage, Miss Grimm replied that she was unable to account for it, but knew that Edward Bok, the editor, refused to print any articles submitted that were in favor of suffrage.

Announcement was made that Prof. Miss Eastman, who was to have given

$3,000 THROWN AWAY IN USELESS EFFORT

MAN TRAVELS THOUSANDS OF MILES IN QUEST OF HEALTH.

UNITED DOCTORS CURE HIM.

Abscesses Of Lungs And Other Complications Caused Misery.

There is no sensation so terrible as to know that one is slowly dying from an apparently incurable disease, that each day brings you nearer the point of the grave and that no escape can be found. Thousands and thousands are daily feeling this experience and in hopeless misery are awaiting the end and mentally resolving to die. Disease kills more people yearly than wars, and ignorance kills more than disease for it is ignorance of the dangers of disease that permit people to allow themselves to become hopelessly incurable.

James Heers of 929 Liberty Street, Racine, Wis., who was cured of a disease that was gradually sapping his life by the United Doctors, who have their Janesville Institute in the Hayes Bldg., corner of Milwaukee and Main Sts., relates an experience that is a revelation of one man's fight for life. Mr. Heers' statement is as follows: "There was three of what should have been the best years of my life together with nearly a lifetime of savings spent in futile efforts at reclaiming my lost health which, like the Will of the Wisp, was ever beckoning and yet ever eluding me. My trouble first started while I was in Michigan, with a severe attack of pneumonia which threatened my life. This finally ended with abscesses of the lungs and a train of other complications and troubles which completely shattered my health and made me miserable. After a year's treatment with the best doctors there, I was told by them that they could do nothing more for me and I was advised by them to go to a milder climate. They advised Texas, and there I went, I stayed in Texas a year and a half, doctoring all the time and taking the best care of myself, but all to no purpose. My condition didn't improve. Finally, discouraged and utterly hopeless, I returned north again. Here I doctoring once more but my condition had grown so bad that I declined even more than before and dared not hope for recovery. It was while in this condition that I was advised by many friends to go to the United Doctors. It is hard for me to express the feeling of joy that entered my heart when after a careful examination I was told by them I could get well again. It seemed too good to be true, but now after just five weeks of the United Doctors' treatment and the extreme care they have taken with me and their great skill I know it is true for I already feel like a different person. I know I will never be able to repay them for what they are doing for me and I make this statement publicly so other sick people will know where to go for a cure."

The United Doctors have institutes in many states. The Janesville Institute is in the Hayes Bldg.

"THE SERVANT IN THE HOUSE."

Johnnie Tingley, the head of 150,000 members of the Universal Brotherhood and Theosophical Society of the World, and who first introduced the open air Greek Theatre in America was in Portland, Maine, recently, during the engagement of "The Servant in the House" in that city. She was asked by the editor of the Portland Evening Express to write her views of his famous play for that paper. We quote in part her review:

"The production of 'The Servant in the House,' which I recently witnessed at the Jefferson Theatre, is a symbolic play, one of rare merit. It should be seen and studied, for in its suggestions it is replete with moral and spiritual principles for old and young."

"It is an exposition of the heart and soul of man, a spiritual drama. From beginning to end it is refreshing, wholesome and uplifting effort. It speaks to the eyes and ears of our children, and I welcome it as a sign—that a moral preparation has already begun through the drama for the benefit of mankind."

"The Servant in the House" will be seen at the Myers Theatre on Tuesday March 12.

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN."

Stetson's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is the mammoth double production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" which will appear on Friday, March 8, matinee and evening at the Myers Theatre—matinee at 3:45.

The rendition of Uncle Tom by this well-known and well-liked company will never grow old. This management evidently believes in the maxim, "What is worth doing is worth doing well." There runs through this grand story a pathos particularly touching and sweet. It speaks the universal story of the heart. It reflects like a mirror of the innermost phases of the human emotions. It is more than a play—it is a moral classic. It argues for two of the greatest themes that can engage the mind—human liberty and immortality of the soul. Notwithstanding the frequent production of this play, it is never produced in the sumptuous manner by other companies as it is in Stetson's. It is like meeting an old friend after a year's absence. In his theatre offering Manager Washburn has brought together all the requisites that go to make up a really great production, one that it will be real loss to miss. Parade at 2 p. m., Matinee at 3:45.

THE MODEL STATE.

The bureau of pointing to Wisconsin as the state which leads all others in the great reform movement is being impressed just now by the income tax blanks recently sent out by the tax commission. The blanks indicate that the principal object in view is to "get the man," and it will not be surprising if the tax-ridden people of the state arise in their might and protest to some purpose against this latest evidence of reform.

While the individual income tax is graded and will not be burdensome to men with moderate incomes, the business and corporation tax is a cleverly devised scheme to extract from all lines of business a tribute of six per cent, and this amounts to highway robbery.

The firm or corporation which makes twelve per cent on the assessed valuation of its property pays six per cent for the privilege of doing business in the state. If two men with a capital of $25,000 invested make $5,000 they are assessed $300 as a firm, and their personal tax is liable to be as much more.

The trouble with Wisconsin is, the state has gone daffy on reform, and the men who have been shouting for it are getting what is coming to them, good and plenty. If they were the only sufferers there would be little occasion for sympathy, but all the taxpayers are involved, and the state is already feeling it. Colonel Roosevelt has another guess coming on budget state reform.

THAT REASSESSMENT.

It is unfortunate that an error was made in reporting the cost of the reassessment in Tuesday's issue of the Gazette. In place of ten thousand six hundred and ninety-five dollars and fifty cents the figures should have read, two thousand six hundred and ninety-five dollars and fifty cents. The error was made by the telegraph operator in Madison who sent the message wrong. However, at that, the amount it cost the city was entirely unnecessary and it is being realized now that it was brought about solely for political capital by an ambitious politician who desired to carry favor for future preferment. He is today a candidate for a city office, and makes claims of having accomplished much for the citizens during his regime as city attorney. If this is one of the things he accomplished, the payment of a sum for a needless reassessment, it is of a negative quantity and should be put to the other side of the ledger. In fact, all of his claims appear to be wrongly entered and instead of being a credit entry should be put into the other column.

A FAN'S VIEW.

From the point of view of a baseball fan the proposal of Colonel Roosevelt to recall the judiciary is like taking an appeal from a decision of an umpire to the bleachers in a ball game. This idea hits the nail on the head. Think it over.

Champ Clark and his "Horn" Dawg song won for him the Iowa state delegation. It music will win out for a candidate and the "Horn" Dawg song is music, the shades of Wagner and Beethoven must be in mourning.

The Roosevelt forces have begun explaining what Roosevelt really meant when he said he was not a candidate. Keep it up, gentlemen, and you will be busy the rest of the campaign.

STIMSON DOES NOT MINCE HIS WORDS IN TAFT'S BEHALF

the classified civil service virtually all of the presidential offices; a measure which would at once blow strikes out of most of the enormous political power of the president.

"The results of this deliberate self-abnegation are shown in the great legislative and constructive accomplishments of his term. Mr. Taft's standards of administration, like those of Mr. Roosevelt, have been constantly toward party and public life, in our public service and our public life.

"With great patience, with unwavering courage, with absolute disinterestedness, in these excitable times when men's minds are full of a readiness for criticism and a desire for experiment, he has carried on the burden of administration and has carried it forward, it will be a reflection upon our own power of judgment and candid judgment if we do not recognize the merit as well as the difficulty of that achievement now."

Reform methods of government advocated by many of the progressives, and in part by Mr. Roosevelt, were severely criticized by Mr. Stimson. He denounced the recall of judges as destined to bring the courts "down into the vortex of politics"; and said that it was no test of a Republican's progressiveness to require his support to systems that had been successful in certain states.

"It is more narrowness and intolerance to insist upon a remedy which has proved effective in one place, as the necessary test of sincerity and intelligent reform in another," he said. "It is even more erroneous to make fidelity to one of these schemes of local government in one of the commonwealths a test for what is proper and appropriate in the government of the nation at large."

Mr. Stimson said that the reform movement had apparently worked well in Oregon, but that in a 50-year trial in New York, as applied to constitutional questions, it had been a failure.

Should the national republicans who live in New York be read out of this party," he asked, "because he declines to accept the referendum as the best remedy to cure the abuses of popular government in his own state?"

"It only confuses and distracts the public mind and shrouds the whole administration in the mists of the different states. Mr. Taft's administration must be judged by the attitude with which he has approached and the success he has attained in dealing with these national problems, and not according to the views which any of us may hold upon these local questions of state machinery."

The secretary of war drew attention to the investigations that have been made under President Taft, into problems that had been the subject of serious controversy for years. The work of the tariff board, the Hadley railway securities commission, and the Hughes-commission on second class mail matter, were typical, he said, of the methods sought by Mr. Taft to ascertain facts.

"I doubt if there has ever been an administration where so many vital questions of progress were under careful, scientific investigation and scrutiny by commissions of competent experts," he said.

"There is nothing dramatic about such a method; but a reform accomplished in the light of such carefully accredited facts is more likely to be permanent. This is the very essence of Mr. Taft's method as a reformer."

President Taft has been "most falsely vilified and abused" in connection with the tariff, said Mr. Stimson.

"Is not this a tremendous achievement in the direction of national progress," asked Mr. Stimson, "to compare the methods and industries which, if uncontrolled, would inevitably turn into a party of special interests and reaction? Is he not right in standing to the utmost, even to the exercise of all of the executive powers of veto against the old privilege-granting methods of tariff revision employed by the democratic House of Representatives? Is he not right in insisting even against popular clamor that we shall make a clean break with the past and that no tariff revision shall take place except upon these conditions and after a scientific study by a non-partisan board of experts."

Secretary Stimson reviewed the administration and its achievements. He said that the president had outlined the system of trust reform which if adopted would put the country in "a fair way of solving our first problem and solving it right," that in the corporation tax the president had turned the back of one of the most stubborn fortresses of reaction. His interest in human welfare was evidenced by his devotion to the progress of the Philippines, said Mr. Stimson, through his activity in behalf of the arbitration treaties, his efforts for adequate workmen's compensation laws and his suggestions for an industrial commission.

Quality in Merchandise:

Quality in merchandise is a tangible fact, to those who know and those who really compare. The greatest encouragement we have in our merchandising methods is, the Rock County Buyers seek quality, and rather than attempt to carry comparison in the eye place goods side by side. It is the only safe way, for where ever unreasonably low prices are given by skimping quality, the user of the merchandise must certainly lose in the end. The quality of The Big Store merchandise has such a well-known, high standard of genuineness that emphasizing the fact is unnecessary, yet if you carry the truth in mind when reading our advertisements you will more fully understand the value of opportunities that have rarely, if ever, been equaled — the ones we make.

Costly Campaign Argument in Which Taxpayers Must Foot the Bills
and Also Pay Increased Taxes.

Through an error of the telegraph operator at Madison, who read a two for a ten, the actual cost of the reassessment for the city of Janesville, brought about by the petition of Claudy Mackay, will be $2,690.50 instead of $10,690.50, as announced last evening. It is unfortunate the error occurred, but even the revised figure is much too high for the taxpayers to have to pay for campaign thunder for the complaining witness.

Just how this money was expended will be interesting to the taxpayers and the following table signed by the tax commissioners tell the story:

LOCAL POSTOFFICE
MAKING STATISTICS

All Mail Has to Be Weighed This Week and Entire Business Is Delayed on This Account.

Exact statistics of the postoffice
business in this city and the surrounding country are being required for this week and as consequence the employees in this part of the government business are kept exceedingly busy weighing and counting every piece of mail matter which passes through there and keeping account of the time employed in the various lines of work. Statistics are being made out of the amount of mail passing through Janesville, the length of time which it is in the local office, the number of stops made by the rural carriers and the number of pieces left at each stop and many other facts
which will give the officials an idea of the conditions here. In fact, these are the most thorough and complete investigations which have ever been required in this city and keep the force extremely busy. In view of the fact that every ounce of mail has to be weighed and registered before it is given to the carriers they are not able to get around as early as they have been and the entire business will be delayed during the week. The use to which these statistics will be put by the department officials has not yet been learned but it is supposed that they are part of the work of increasing the efficiency of the department which is being carried on over the entire country.

MRS. BRIGGS MEETS WITH GREAT SUCCESS.

Mrs. Briggs Meets and Interests
Janesville Women.—Large Class Present.

Mrs. Briggs, the lecturer and illustrator at the free baking school in the vacant store room 15 S. Main St., certainly did take the women of Janesville by surprise. Her success was instantaneous, judging by the enthusiastic interest of the large number of women present. There is no mistake about Mrs. Briggs being an expert in her work; she is simply wonderful. The baking school is sure to be popular with the housewives of Janesville, as there is so much that is practical and useful in every day baking taught by this expert. Everything she does in her work is explained in an understandable way. As each recipe is put together, the compatibility of the dough, as it should be,
is shown, and you are told how to control the temperature of your oven, to secure results that are unerring and satisfactory. It is noted in the work of this expert that she has no failure in baking. She serves what she bakes in the women present, as it comes from the oven. The K. K. baking powder used by Mrs. Briggs in her work certainly gives an astounding result.
If the food baked with it is any order to go by. Women who have tried this modern, never-failing powder are generous in their praise of it, and are advising their neighbors and those they are interested in, to order a 25 cent can from their grocer, and insist on his sending it to them at once. The "Cook's Book," which goes free to the users of K. K. for the return of the certificate found in each 25 cent can,
is the most practical and most valuable ever written by Mrs. Hill, our greatest authority on culinary art. If you want to make someone happy give them a "Cook's Book" for a present.

KIMBALL FURNITURE
STORE FIRE GUTTED;
LOSS WILL BE HEAVY

Damage From Blaze This Morning
Originating in Defective Motor
Wiring May Exceed $20,000.

Damage estimated at $20,000 was suffered from fire, smoke and water
this morning by the store and stock of Frank D. Kimball, 201 West Milwaukee street. The fire which started from defective wiring near the electric motor at the head of the elevator shaft, spread quickly to the furniture on the third floor and what was not burned there was ruined by the heat, water and smoke. Furniture was blistered, veneer peeled off, upholstering cracked, and upholstering soaked with water. The heat from the burning furniture was so intense that the ceiling paint in the front part of the floor not reached by the fire was blistered and peeled off. Water used in fighting the blaze penetrated to the second and first floors and did much damage to the stock stored
there.

The fire was discovered by E. A.
Thompson, employed as undertaker
by Mr. Kimball. Shortly before ten o'clock Mr. Kimball attempted to start the elevator but was unable to move it. Thinking that something was wrong with the gearing at the head of the shaft he sent Mr. Thompson up the stairway to investigate.
As he opened the door to the third story he found the corner near the elevator motor ablaze and hastening to the West Side station not a half block distant turned in an alarm.

The department made quick response, and the Fire Police Patrol arrived on the scene almost as soon.
The first line of hose, run from the hydrant in front of the fire station to a rear window in the third story
struck the heart of the blaze and soon subdued it. Another line was run through a window on the east side,
and a third was brought up the stairway from a window on the first floor.
All were well directed and within half an hour the fire was extinguished.
The aerial truck was placed at the front of the building, the ladder raised, and a fourth line of hose brought up but it was not found necessary to use it. Six lines of hose were laid in all; two from the corner of North River and Milwaukee streets, two from the hydrant in front of the store, one from the corner of Wall and North River streets, and the other from the fire station. All were available if needed. Only quick and well directed work on the part of the firemen made it possible to confine the fire within a few yards of its source and prevent it from spreading through the open elevator shaft to the floors
below. The only part of the building badly damaged by the fire was the wooden enclosure around the electric motor and a small area of the ceiling above it.

Dense smoke permeated with heavy odors of turpentine and varnish
poured out of the windows and doors
and made work difficult and dangerous for the firemen who ventured inside. Chief Kling, on opening the door at the head of the stairway, was driven back and nearly overcome, but succeeded in gaining an entrance.
The stock on the first and second floors was saved from much damage
by the fire police who covered a large part of it with waterproof tarpulins and swept back the water that accumulated on the floors. A large part of the membership turned out and was of valuable assistance to Mr. Kimball, who feels very grateful to the firemen, the fire police, and to all others who saved his stock and building.

Extent of Damage.
Damage to the furniture stock is estimated by Mr. Kimball to be from $8,000 to $10,000, and the damage to the ceilings of the building, principally from water, will amount to several thousand dollars more. Insurance was carried on both stock and building but it is not known as yet if it covers the loss.

The case of Erasmus N. Sartell vs.
the Janesville Traction company went to the jury at three o'clock this afternoon. After the testimony was completed the judge gave instructions to the jury indicating four questions which should be determined: Was the defendant negligent? Was the negligence the proximate cause of the injury? Did the plaintiff exercise ordinary care? What amount of compensation is due the plaintiff? Sartell sued for $10,000.

A jury in the case of L. L. Hilton versus Michael Hayes, et al, was drawn this afternoon.

Frank Wood, one of the first white children born in Janesville, died at eleven o'clock this morning at his home, 526 West Bluff street. Death was the result of a complication of disorders which he had suffered from a long time. Mr. Wood was born in this city October 18, 1842, being the son of Mr. and Mrs. Royal Wood. He was married January 21, 1874 to Miss Mary Johnson who, with one daughter, Mrs. Arthur Wheelock of Rockford, and one brother, Wesley Johnson of Michigan, are his sole survivors. Mr. Wood, enlisted in the Twelfth Wisconsin Battery and saw active service in the war of the rebellion. For many years he conducted the store at the corner of Madison and North Academy streets and he had a large acquaintance in the city and many friends, especially among the older generation to whom he was best known. Funeral arrangements will be made later.

Tona Vita Builds Up Run-Down People

Physicians Have Great Success With Tonic in This Country.

When people of wealth become debilitated and run down in health they go to high priced sanitariums and health resorts to be built up again.
But what about the thousands of debilitated nervous men and women with no vitality or ambition who neither have the time nor money to spare for such luxuries as sanitariums? If you are in this miserable condition read with care the following statement by
M. F. Mann, living at 53 Good Avenue,
Buffalo, N. Y.

"I heard so much about the new tonic, 'Tona Vita' that I decided to give it a trial and I feel like a different man. I am strong in every way.
I sleep well, can eat anything and my nerves are as steady as can be. I have gained four pounds in the last ten days. I believe 'Tona Vita' is the best medicine on earth."

"Tona Vita was introduced in this country by a number of physicians nearly a year ago. The tonic has proved the biggest success of any medicine ever before sold to the public.

If you are debilitated and run down don't allow this miserable condition to last a day longer. Let Tona Vita build you up and bring back your health. If it fails, your money will be returned by our agent in your city.

Winter driving is the real test of a car's worth. Almost any car will perform well in the summer time when the roads are good and the machine's reserve power is not needed.

With the winter in dead earnest, however, with its slippery rugged roads and deep snow, the real test of a motor car takes place.

The steady pounding produced by the rough roads severely tries the mechanism—the stinging sleet and snow and the rapid temperature changes affect the finish.

Therefore it is in the winter that the owner realizes and appreciates what reserve strength, a long wheelbase and a well painted body means.

Then it is that the economy arising from the purchase of Cutting cars becomes most apparent.

Reserve horsepower, long wheelbase, substantial design and proper finish of the Cutting Cars cause these machines to stand out pre-eminently as the very best that can be purchased at the price.

There is really an excess of value in them.
They are cars that can be driven the year 'round—they are powerful, well made and durable—they have all the graceful lines, up-to-date design, mechanical stability and in-built quality of other cars selling around their price.

Cutting cars are made in six models, including roadsters and touring cars ranging in price from $1200 to $2250.

HEART AND HOME TALKS
BY BARBARA BOYD

What Is the Law of Your Being?

DID you ever stop to think why it is you are not making a success of something you have taken up and which is not going just the way you want it to? Or, if you are contemplating some venture, and of course, want it to be successful, from what point of view are you looking at it?

The root of success lies much deeper than most of us think. Usually, we study externals. We decide to open a store, and we look about the locality we are thinking of choosing, to see what the prospect of trade is, what our competition will be.

Or we think of taking up some certain work, and we inquire what the salary is, what the hours of employment are, what is the chance of getting a position.

All these are well enough. But they are the superficial elements of success.

For the primal root of success, we must look to ourselves. We must find out what is the law of our being. Then, we should put our activities in rhythm with this, and we cannot but swing onward to success. Every force in nature that vibrates in the same rhythm will increase our power. We gather to us such strength that we are irresistible.

Instead of looking about to see if trade will come to our store, we should first look to ourselves to see if we are fitted to be a storekeeper. Is the very essence and law of our being storekeeping? If it is, walls of iron cannot keep trade away. We will attract it by a force that cannot be resisted.

If we are thinking of taking up some special work, we should study ourselves first most rigidly, to see if that is the work our real self calls for. If it is, hours and salary will be a bagatelle. We'll soon have them to our liking.

We study laws in the physical world. We know they are perfect and unvarying. And we regulate our lives by them. But we give little heed to the laws of the mental or spiritual realm. Yet here are laws just as sure, just as unvarying. In this mental world, we trust to chance. We blunder along haphazard, clutching at this, grasping at that, relying only on instinct, or intuition or desire. Yet there are laws here to help, to guard, or to wreck, if we trespass upon them.

Study then, most earnestly, the law of your being. Pry into the innermost depths of your nature to know what you want to do, what you are fitted to do. And do not be too proud to accept the verdict, if it is not to your liking. For by working according to the law of your being, you will win success. But by going against it, you will be fretted, hindered, have obstacles and hardships to overcome, for which you can see no reason. If you do win to success, it will be by extra effort, and the probability is that you will never achieve the success that would have been yours had your activities been in step with the law of your being. For then, you fall into accord with all the forces that are moving in that direction. There is no friction. All is harmonious. All goes well, as we say. Your work is not only successful, but you enjoy it, and life becomes, no a struggle, but harmonious and happy development.

Barbara Boyd

Each and a half and an inch is large enough for the smallest sizes used for tea and luncheon. The letters must be padded well and the satin stitches set evenly. As a rule the initial is put in the corner of a napkin but small napkins may have it placed in the exact center. When folded in thirds the letter will come on the top. This is a pretty fashion if the napkins can be induced to change her accustomed mode of folding.

The average housewife makes too many folds in both cloths and napkins for small napkins look better if folded but once each way and medium sizes are improved by folding in thirds.

A large napkin folded four times will lie more smoothly if first folded wrong side out through the middle then bring each edge over to the fold. Make the other folds in the same way and note the difference between that and the old way of folding over and over which makes a large thick fold and a wrinkle or two in the inside when unfolded.

$25,000 TAXICAB BANDITS DISCOVERED THROUGH JEALOUSY.

New York.—The "taxicab" robbery, as it has become known from coast to coast, which occurred here on February 13th when two messengers of the East River National Bank were blackjacked as they rode to their bank in a taxicab and robbed of $25,000 in bills, is one of the most spectacular and daring holdups that has ever occurred in New York City. It was conducted throughout in a typically western manner and reminds one of the Western stage coach hold-ups.

The above picture is Annie Hull, known as "Swede Annie," whose sudden lavish spending of money aroused the jealousy of another woman of the underworld. She informed the police and the capture of the bandits was the result.

CHILD NEEDS MUCH ALBUMEN.

Recent experiments have shown that the percentage of albumen required for perfect nutrition is much less than was formerly supposed. The growing child requires probably three times as much as the mature man because it must build new tissue besides repairing waste. An insufficient supply of albumen for the child, if long continued, leads to serious results. A case was brought to my attention in which an infant had been fed for several weeks on fresh cream, because it was found that the stomach retained that while the entire milk was persistently rejected. At first there was an apparently satisfactory gain in flesh, but this gave place to extreme weakness and wasting. The cream was mixed with a part of the balance of the milk, gradually increasing the amount of albumen and other necessary elements of nutrition, and normal conditions soon returned.

The Evening Chit-Chat
BY RUTH CAMERON

TO GO out into the world, and do something well enough to get paid for it, is often difficult. But it is likely to be very interesting and is seldom monotonous. To stay at home and keep a pleasant home for the far-fetched may be harder or easier—there is a difference of opinion about that—but it is almost always more monotonous.

Hence, it seems to me that it is the duty of those who go out of the home into the world each day, to try to bring back as much as they can to enliven the existence of those who stay at home.

Molly, the little stenographer lady, believes this with all her heart. And more than that, she lives it.

Long ago Molly made a little rule for herself about this matter. It was to try never to go home without taking something to the little mother. The result is that the little mother awaits Molly's homecoming, not only with the eagerness of a mother, but also with the anticipation of a child.

Understand me, I do not mean that the "something" is anything very large, or always something that costs money. Molly's slender salary has far too many home demands upon it to permit of that. Sometimes it is just an amusing story of happenings at the office that Molly brings home. Again it's some interesting piece of news about some mutual acquaintance, which will serve as a topic of conversation all through supper. When finances are low, and there is nothing else in sight, Molly makes a business of visiting some source from which she can get some news, during her lunch hour. Molly's mother, although she appreciates this gift, thinks it means putting a good deal of money into something that will be gone in a day or two, so more often Molly brings home a less perishable offering. During her lunch hours, she often visits the shops "just to look around," and on these tours she watches for some nice little thing that can be bought to advantage, and picks it up on Saturday. In lean weeks it may be only a twelve and a half cent handkerchief "marked down twenty-five," in fatter times it may be a pretty jacket, or even the makings of a shirtwaist.

Twenty-five to fifty cents a week is Molly's financial investment. In little love and thoughtfulness and a tender sympathy for the monotony of her little mother's life are her larger capital. What wonder that her profits are beyond calculation.

If this little story makes you think, as it does me, I certainly do not need to add any moral or application.

PRACTICAL POINTS.

During the extremely cold weather if the clothes pins are put into a dripping pan and heated hot, the hanging out of the clothes will be made much more comfortable. Do not carry out a full basket, or all the pins. A second trip will more than pay by the comfort.

Always wrap linen that is to lay any length of time, in blue paper. It will keep it from turning yellow.

Hair brushes, if carefully washed in hot soda water and quickly dried, will keep their freshness for years.

A good housekeeper says if we will stir a tablespoonful of vinegar into the lard in which fritters, doughnuts or potatoes are fried, they will not soak fat.

A teaspoonful of salt or a small piece of gum camphor added to the oil in a lamp is said to improve the light, always providing the burner is kept clean.

To lessen the labor of ironing table linens, if they are wrung by hand the wrinkles are not so firmly set and will dry smooth.

Eat apples. They are a tonic and an appetizer. They are rich in flavors and a valuable food adjunct.

If one would have a good complexion, it is necessary to have plenty of fresh air while sleeping and plenty of work to keep the mind busy. The only wrinkles then will be those made from laughter, and those are considered beautiful.

Winter or summer one window in the sleeping room should be kept open, day and night.

One person can exhaust all the air in an ordinary bedroom in an hour. A well-ventilated bedroom and the sleeper's head entirely covered with the bedclothes is no better than sleeping with a closed window.

Don't worry about talking cold. Fresh air is one of the best proven lives.

Just a Mere Trifle.
A. B. Fowler of Watertown, N. Y., was putting a prize white Leghorn hen at the Allentown (Pa.) poultry show, when she began pecking at his shirt front. In a few minutes she had loosened and swallowed his valuable diamond. He declined to allow the owner to kill her, saying he had lots of diamonds at home.

WOMAN DETECTIVE WHO TRAPPED TAXICAB BANDITS.

Mrs. Isabella Goodwin, police matron, has won the distinction of being New York's sharpest woman sleuth since she succeeded in trapping the taxicab bandits. She engaged as dishwasher in a restaurant frequented by criminals in order to gather the evidence against the daring men who blackjacked two messengers of the East River National Bank on February 13th, as they rode down Broadway, and robbed them of $25,000 in bills. It was here that she got acquainted with women of the underworld, one of whom, through Venerable Fireless Cooker.

Among the countless inventions on which the modern world is accustomed to pride itself, the fireless cooker has had a modest but hitherto unquestioned place. It, however, there are few things in the sun, the fireless cooker is not one of them, for the device turns out to be at least as old as the Christian era, and probably much older. Friedlander, in his "Home Life and Manners," says that every Jewish household had a "bakeket" filled with hay, in which food prepared on Friday was kept warm until the Sabbath—Saturday. It is an interesting question whether the modern fireless cooker is an independent modern development of the same principle, or the direct descendant of the Jewish hay-baskets of the first century.—Youth's Companion.

Baking Helps

Valuable Suggestions
By Mrs. Nevada Briggs, Expert of the Art of Baking, as taught by Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill
Helpful Cake Making Hints

Always sift flour and K C Baking Powder at least three times. The more sifting, the lighter the cake. Remember that! To cream butter and sugar quickly, warm the sugar slightly. Beat yolks of eggs with rotary beater. Whip whites of eggs with flat spoon whip. Water makes lighter cakes; milk makes richer cakes.

To mix a cake, first cream butter and sugar thoroughly, then add yolks, if used. Then alternately add moisture and flour that has been sifted with baking powder and stir until smooth and glossy, adding egg whites after thoroughly mixing.

Always use K C Baking Powder. Biscuit Helps

Always sift flour and K C Baking Powder at least three times.

Have shortening cold and firm. Mix dough as soft as it can be handled. The softer dough goes into the oven, the lighter the biscuit when it comes out. It is easier for K C Baking Powder to do its work in soft than in stiff dough. Mix biscuits very little. Do not knead. Stir up with spoon or knife and press in shape to roll on floured board.

With K C Baking Powder results are sure and certain. Ask your grocer for K C.

AUDIENCE DELIGHTED WITH PERFORMANCE

"The Chocolate Soldier" Proves Pleasant Surprise to the Janesville Theatre Goers.
Not since the days of Mascot, and Oliveira has such a musical, so clever an opera, been presented to the theatre going public as is heard in the production of "The Chocolate Soldier" by the Whitney Opera Company at the Myers Theatre last evening. Not since the days of the old Bostonians has such a musical company appeared in Janesville and the audience which filled the theatre were delighted with the musical score, the pretty little plot and by play, and the clever work of the principals. It was a musical comedy without the usual despite which met their had a most clever chorus of men and women and the few times they did appear on the stage they made a decided impression.
There is not much to the plot, a love affair which originates when Nadine, daughter of Colonel Zoppo, a Bulgarian officer, saves the life of Lieut. Dumirelli, a Serbian officer from capture by concealing him behind the curtains in her bed room and the complications that arise from such an act to the final happy ending of it all when Dumirelli wins the hand of Nadine, the daughter of Zoppo, the Bulgarian officer, the stage settings, the costumes, the stage settings, the effects were all Bulgarian and perfect in every detail.
Frances Hewitt as Nadine had a most delicious soprano voice which was used to advantage when the opportunity offered. Lotta Gale as her mother, Aurelia Zoppo, was most clever and also fitted with a voice that was clear as a bell. Emma Lombardi, as Mascha, an Aurelia's cousin, the third of the trio playing the leading roles, was sprightly, pretty and could sing like a bird. Roy Purviance, as Dumirelli, Nelson Riley as Col. Zoppo and John McElough as Spriddoff, added their excellent voices to the work of the sextette upon whom fell the burden of the opera. The chorus of well trained male and female voices appeared at just the right time, added their voices to the choruses when needed and then vanquished to leave the stage clear for the principals. It was a most charming opera, well staged and with a cast who could both sing and act. It will be something but for another such company visit Janesville and it is encouraging to Manager Myers to bring such productions to be received by such a house as greeted last evening's performance.

SICK HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, TORPID LIVER, CONSTIPATION—CASCARETS.

Sick headaches! Always trace them to lazy liver, delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or a sick stomach. Poisonous matter, instead of being thrown out, is reabsorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, awful throbbing, sickening headache.
Cascarets remove the cause by stimulating the liver, making the poison move on and out and purifying the blood. The effect is almost instantaneous. Laiden whose sensitive organisms are especially prone to sick headaches, need not suffer, for they can be quickly cured by Cascarets. One taken tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10 box means a clear head and perfect health for months. Don't forget the children—little children need a good, gentle, cleansing, too. Children gladly take Cascarets, because they taste good and never grip or sicken.

What more evidence can you ask? And as still further proof you can even send and get a sample package entirely free. The sample will surely convince you.

The reasons why Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets accomplish such results are very easy to understand. These tablets contain almost the same elements as the gastric juices of the stomach. And when your stomach is sick and not working just right, it does not get out enough of the nature of the gastric juices to properly take care of the food you eat. So if you will only give the stomach a little help by taking a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet you will relieve it of its chief duty and allow it the rest it needs to recuperate. One grain of the active principle in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet will digest 2,000 grains of food, whether you place it in a glass jar or in your stomach.

All druggists sell them. The price is 50 cents per box. If you prefer to try them first write to P. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich., and a sample package will be sent you free.

THE WAY OF A MAN

By EMERSON HOUGH

Copyright, 1907, by the Outing Publishing Company

"Alas!" whispered she, Sheraton's face was sad as he went on, with the old justification. "Jefferson would turn over in his grave if he saw Virginia divided as it is. Why, Cowles, we've all the world we need here. We can live alone here, each on his own acres, a gentleman, and all the needs of government in protection and fair laws. Calhoun was right. Better give us two powerful countries, each living happily and content, than one at war with itself. Clay was a great man, but both he and Webster were fighting against the inevitable."

"The war has already begun on the border," said my father. "My friend and partner, Colonel Meriwether of Albemarle, who is with the army in the west, says that white men are killing white men all across the lands west of the Missouri."

"At least, Cowles," said Colonel Sheraton, pacing a short way apart, his hands behind his back, "we can wait until after this election."

"But if the government takes action," suggested Orme.

Sheraton whirled quickly. "Then war, war," he cried, "war till each Virginian is dead on his doorstep and each woman starved at her breast! John Cowles, you and I will fight. I know that you will fight."

"Yes," said my father, "I will fight."

"And with us?"

"No," said my father, smiling; "no, my friend, against you." I saw my mother look at him and sink back in her chair. I saw Orme also gaze at him sharply with a peculiar look.

But so, at least, this argument ended for the time. The two men, old neighbors, took each other solemnly by the hand, and presently, after talk of more pleasant sort on lesser matters, the servants brought our carriage, and we started back for Cowles' Farms.

There had been no opportunity for me to mention to Colonel and Mrs. Sheraton something that was upon my mind. I had small chance for farewell to Miss Grace, and, if I shall admit the truth, this pleased me quite as well as not.

We rode in silence for a time, my father musing, my mother silent also. It was Orme who was the first I heard to speak.

"By the way, Mr. Cowles," he said, "you spoke of Colonel Meriwether of Albemarle county. Is he away in the west? It chances that I have letters to him, and I was purposing going into that country before long."

"Indeed, sir?" replied my father. "I am delighted to know you are to meet my friend. As it chanced, he is my associate in a considerable business enterprise—a splendid man, a splendid man, Meriwether. I will, if you do not mind, add my letter to others you may have, and I trust you will carry him our best wishes from this side of the mountains."

"That was like my father—innocent, unassuming, ever ready to accept other men as worthy of this trust and ever ready to help a stranger as he might. For myself, I confess I was more suspicious. Something about Orme set me on edge. I knew not what. I heard them speaking further about Meriwether's being somewhere in the west and heard Orme also say carefully that he must in any case run over to Albemarle and call upon some men whom he was to meet at the University of Virginia. We did not ask his errand, and none of us suspected the purpose of his systematic visiting among the more influential centers of that country. But if you will go now to that white domed building planned by Thomas Jefferson at Charlottesville and read the names on the bronze tablets by the doors, names of boys who left school there to enter a harder school, then you will see the results of the visit there of Gordon Orme."

My little personal affairs were at that time so close to me that they observed clear vision of far-off things. I did not hear all the talk in the carriage, but pulled my horse in behind and so rode on moodily, gazing out across the pleasant lands to the foot of old Catoctin and the dim blue Ridge. A sudden discontent assailed me. Must I live here always? Must I settle down and be simply a farmer forever? I wanted to ride over there, over the Rock Fish gap, where once King Charles' men broke a bottle in honor of the king, and took possession of all the lands west of the Potomac. The west—the word in some way thrilled in my blood—I knew not why. I was a boy. I had not learned to question any emotion, and introspection troubled me no more than it did my palmer dog.

Before we had separated at the door of our house I motioned to my mother, and we drove apart and sought ourselves beneath our own oaks in the front yard of Cowles' Farms. Then I told her what had happened between Miss Grace and myself and asked her if she was pleased.

"I am very content with thee," she answered slowly, musingly. "Then must think of settling, Jack, and Miss Grace is a worthy girl. I hope it will bring peace between our families always." I saw a dim cross her clear, dark eye. "Peace" she whispered to herself. "I wish that it might be."

But peace was not in my heart. Leaving her presently, I once more swung leg over saddle and rode off across our fields as and a lover as over crossed the first day of his engagement to be wed.

CHAPTER IV.

What Cometh in the Night.

WHEN I rode up our lane in the dusk I found my father and mother sitting in the cool of the front gallery, and, giving my rein to one of our boys, I flung myself down on the steps, near by and now and again joined in their conversation.

I was much surprised to learn that our willow guest, Gordon Orme, had taken sudden departure during my absence, he having been summoned by a messenger from the village, who he stated brought him word that he must forthwith be on his way to Albemarle. He had asked my father if he cared to sell the black horse, Satan, to which he had taken a fancy, but this had been declined. Then it seems there had been some thing of our late meeting at the village, and Orme, laughing, had told of our horse breaking and wrestling in a way which it seemed had not detracted from my standing in my parents' eyes. None of us three was willing to criticize our guest, yet I doubt if any one of us failed to entertain a certain wonder, not to say suspicion, regarding him.

At least he was gone.

Our talk now gradually resolved itself to one of business matters. I ought to have said that my father was an ambitious man and one of wide plans. I think that even then he foresaw the day when the half patriarchal life of our state would pass away before one of wider horizons of commercial sort. He was anxious to hand down his family fortune much increased, and, foreseeing troublesome times ahead as to the institution of slavery in the south, he had of late been taking large risks to assure success in spite of any change of times. Now, moved by some strange reasons which he himself perhaps did not recognize, he began for the first time, contrary to his usual reticence, to explain to my mother and me something of these matters. He told us that in connection with his friend, Colonel William Meriwether of Albemarle, he had invested heavily in coal lands in the western part of the state in what is now West Virginia. This requiring very large sums of money for his part had encumbered not only the lands themselves, but these lands of Cowles' Farms to secure the payment. The holder of these mortgages was a banking firm in Fredericksburg. The interest was one which in these times would be considered a cruel one, and indeed the whole enterprise was one which required a sanguine courage, precisely as his, for I have said that risk he always held as challenge and invitation.

"Does thee think that in these times there should go so deeply in debt?" asked my mother of him.

"Elizabeth!" he said, "that is why I have gone in debt. Two years from now and the value of these lands here may have been cut in half. Ten years from now the coal lands yonder will be worth ten times what they are today."

"John," she said to him suddenly, "sell those coal lands or a part of them."

"Now, that I could not do," he answered, "for half their value. The country now is full of war than of investment. But come, peace, come war, there lies a fortune for us all. For my share there remains but one heavy payment, and tomorrow I ride to raise funds for that among our tenants and elsewhere. I admit that my bankers are shrewd and severe—in fact, I think they would rather see the payments forfeited than not. As Meriwether is away, it is with me to attend to this business now."

That coming day my father rode abroad as he had planned, taking black Satan for his mount, since he needed to travel far. He had collected from various sources, as his account book later showed, a sum of over $5,000, which he must have had in gold and negotiable papers in his saddlebags. During his return home he came down the deep trough road which ran in front of the Sheraton farms and ours. He passed near to a certain clump of bushes at the roadside, and there that happened which brought to a sudden end all the peace and comfort of our lives and which made me old before my time.

I heard the horse Satan whinny at our lane gate wildly, as though in fright, and even as I went out my heart stopped with sudden fear. He had leaped the gate at the lower end of the lane. His bridle rein was broken and caught at his feet as he moved about, throwing up his head in fright as much as viciousness. I hastily looked at the saddle, but it bore no mark of anything unusual. Not pausing to look farther, I caught the broken reins in my hand and sprang into the saddle, spurring the horse down the lane and over the gate again and back to the road which I knew my father must have taken.

There at the side of the road near the clump of blackberry vines and sunnec growth lay my father, a long dark blot, motionless, awesome, as I could see by the light of the moon, now just rising in a gap of the distant mountains. I sprang down and ran to him, lifted his head, called to him in a voice so hoarse I did not recognize it. I told him that it was his son who had come to him and that he must speak. So at last, as though by sheer will he had held on to this time, he turned his gray face toward me and as a dead man spoke.

"Tell your mother," he said, "tell Meriwether—must protect—goodby."

Then he said, "Lizzie!" and opened wide his arms.

Presently he said, "Jack, lay my head down, please." I did so. He was dead, there in the moon.

I straightened him out and put my coat across his face and spurred back down the road again and over the gate. But my mother already knew. She met me at the hall, and her face was white.

"Jack," she said, "I know."

Then we brought him home and laid him in his own great room, as the People with kidney ills want to be cured. When one suffers the tortures of an aching back, relief is eagerly sought for. There are many remedies today that relieve, but do not cure. Doan's Kidney Pills have cured thousands. Here is proof:

Bird Ledingwell, 620 Hackett St., Beloit, Wis., says: "I began using Doan's Kidney Pills about ten years ago and obtained the most satisfactory results. At that time I had an attack of backache, which clung to me persistently, and gradually grew worse. I finally found that my kidneys were weak and accordingly procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills. In a short time the kidneys were restored to their normal condition and I felt like my old self again. Recently when my kidneys were disordered, I used Doan's Kidney Pills and I again received the desired results. I hope that other sufferers of kidney complaint will give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial."

no said, could hardly have been the cause of death. He admitted that the matter seemed mysterious to him.

Up to this time we had not thought of the cause of this disaster nor pondered upon motives were it worse than accident. Now we began to think. Dr. Bond felt in the pockets of my father's coat, and so for the first time we found his account book and his wallet. Dr. Bond and I at once went out and searched the saddle pockets my father had carried. They were quite empty.

All this, of course, proved nothing to us. The most that we could argue was that the horse in some way had thrown his rider and that the fall had proved fatal and that perhaps some wandering negro had committed the theft. These conclusions were the next day had for the horse Satan, whom I whipped and spurred and rode till he trembled, meeting out to him what had been given old Klingworth, his sire, for another murdering deed like this. I could not believe that my father was gone, the man who had been my model, my friend, my companion all my life.

PHYSICAL—WRECK RESTORED TO HEALTH BY GREAT KIDNEY REMEDY.

I feel it my duty to furnish you with my testimonial as to what your remedy, Swamp-Root, did for me when I was a physical wreck from kidney and bladder trouble.

Some years ago I was not able to do any work and could only just creep around and am satisfied that had it not been for Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, I would not have lived. After using the preparation for one month, I was able to work some and when I had used $8.00 worth of Swamp-Root I could do a good way's work. I used about $10.00 worth altogether and would not take $10,000 for the good that it did me. I consider it a God-send to suffering humanity for the diseases for which you recommend it and have recommended it to many sufferers.

Personally appeared before me this 20th of September, 1909, N. L. Huggins, who subscribed the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.

Knew What He Wanted.

A certain small Chicago boy perpetually begged for coffee, and an elderly friend advised his reluctant mother to quench his desire for the forbidden beverage by giving him coffee at will—but strong, black and without cream of sugar. "How do I like coffee?" the child was asked, when this suggestion had been obeyed. "It would be first rate if it had cream and sugar in it," the knowing little shaver replied.

A story is told of a certain Norman bishop, who preached so eloquently against the wearing of long hair before Henry I. and his courtiers, that they gave in on the spot and agreed to have their locks shorn. No sooner had they made their decision than the wise prelate, who had provided for just such a contingency, pulled out a pair of shears from his sleeve and soon removed the curls of the whole court.
